USING THE ORDER TICKET

1. Search for your Company Symbol or name and select Buy Order or Sell Order
2. Provide the Quantity or Value (depending on the underlying securities' denominated currency) and select your Order Type. Learn about Order Types below:

- Market: An order to be executed at the best available market price.
- Mid-Price: An order designed to split the difference between the bid and ask prices, and fill at the midpoint of the best available bid and offer.
- Limit: An order to buy or sell a security at or better than a specified price.
- Stop: An order to be executed at the best available market price if the market reaches a specific price.
- Stop-Limit: An order that is executed at specific price or better after a stop price has been reached. Once the stop is triggered, the order will become a limit order.
- Market on close: An order that is scheduled to trade at the close, at the best available market price
- Limit on close: An order that is scheduled to trade at the close, at or better than a specified price

- For BUY orders, the Stop Loss will create a SELL order at a price (as specified by you) below the purchase price once the original order has executed, and uses the same quantity as the original (buy) order it is attached to
- For SELL orders, the Stop Loss will create a BUY order at a price (as specified by you) above the sell price of the original order, that uses the same quantity as the original (sell) order it is attached to

4. Select Preview once you are ready to submit your order

The Order Ticket will also present you with some supplementary information to help inform you of information relevant to your order or your portfolio:

- A. A quote of the current price for your selected security, includes the highest bid and lowest offer as well as the units available at each of those prices
- B. Here you can view your:
  - i. Net Liquidity: The value of your portfolio if you were to liquidate everything, converted to an equivalent AUD amount.
  - ii. Unrealised P&L: Refers to profits and losses that have occurred on paper, but the relevant transactions have not been completed
  - iii. Close Positions: If you hold shares in the company you wish to buy or sell, you will be able to view your parcel here as well as close/sell the position
  - iv. Open Orders: View any open orders you may have for your selected security

3. Attach Order - OPTIONAL (see below):

- Profit Taker: is a conditional order designed to close out a profitable long position, or create an opposite order to buy back into a position you have sold, at a lower price:
  - For BUY orders, the profit taker will create a SELL order at a price (as specified by you) above the purchase price once the original order has executed, and uses the same quantity as the original (buy) order it is attached to
  - For SELL orders, the profit-taker will create a BUY order at a price (as specified by you) below the sell price of the original order, that uses the same quantity as the original (sell) order it is attached to
- Stop Loss: Is a conditional order designed to limit your loss on long position, or create an opposite order to buy back into a position you have sold at a higher price

ORDER BUFFERS

Generally, whenever you place a BUY order a buffer will be included in your order estimate to ensure you have sufficient funds to settle the trade. The purpose of the buffer is to ensure the funds committed to your order are sufficient to fill it without the risk of currency fluctuations or market price movements exceeding your total buying power.

Whilst a buffer is required for your BUY order to be accepted, once your order has been filled and foreign currency conversion completed (where applicable), surplus funds from the buffer amount will be released for you to use on other orders, or withdraw.

To understand how buffers work in practice, please refer to the simple example below:

You wish to place a BUY order for 10 units of a $50 stock trading on the NASDAQ (USD denominated trading currency), and need to make sure to have enough AUD in your International Wallet. Your;

- Trade premium is $500 USD (assuming your limit price is $50)
- Brokerage is $5 USD (including third party fees)
- Indicative foreign exchange rate to convert AUD to USD is 0.6767

Converting the $505 premium and brokerage cost is estimated to require approximately $746.29 AUD is estimated to require approximately $746.27 AUD. However as we need to assess this at the time of order placement and the foreign currency rate is not confirmed until after your order executes, we will require you to have extra funds in your International Wallet to cater for fluctuations in foreign currency prices. Using an example buffer of 5%, you would be required to have more than $783.58 AUD in your International Wallet for the order to be accepted.

Once your order executes and a foreign currency conversion is processed, in this example the foreign exchange rate to convert AUD to USD is processed at 0.6805, the unused portion of the amount required to accept your order is released, and is available for you to use on another order, or withdraw. The;

- Amount required to accept order = $783.58 AUD
- Amount required to complete trade settlement is $505 USD * 1.469508 AUD exchange rate = $742.10 AUD
- Amount released back to you is ($783.58 – $742.10) = $41.48 AUD

LOT SIZES (APPLICABLE TO SINGAPORE, HONG KONG AND JAPAN)

In certain applicable markets, you may need to trade in minimum lot sizes. These lot sizes can vary depending on the exchange and the security traded. In general, a lot size is the minimum number of units that can be traded, and all orders must be a multiple of the lot size to be accepted.

An example of this can be found in the Japanese stock market, where the lot size is typically 100 shares. This means that the minimum number of shares that can be bought or sold in a single transaction is 100. Similarly, in the Hong Kong stock market, some securities have minimum lot sizes of 10,000. To place orders and trade above the minimum, the order would need to be a multiple of the lot size E.g. where the lot size is 100 units, order increments would need to be 200, 300, 400 units etc.

To trade using lot sizes on our platform, see the steps below:

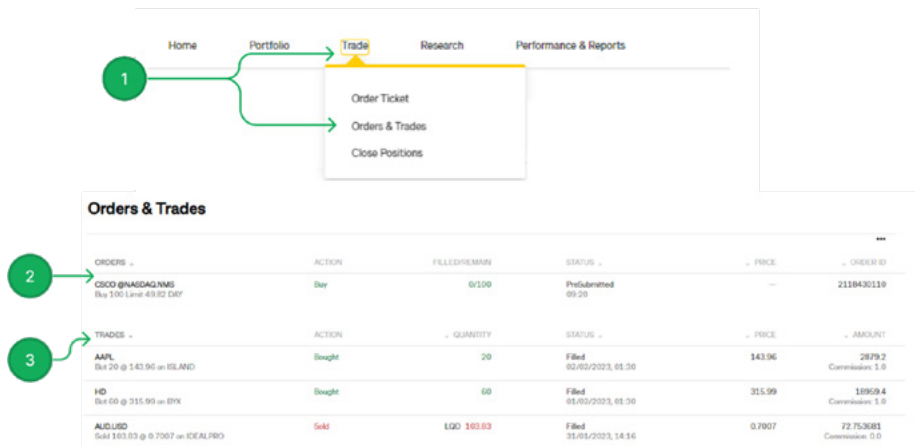

1. All markets have a minimum lot size, however some markets enforce trading in lot sizes only. For the Markets you can access with your International Shares Accounts, these markets are – Hong Kong, Japan and Singapore
2. When you select your security, the minimum lot size will always be prefilled for you in Quantity
3. For markets that only permit trading in multiples of the lot size, if you want to trade more than the minimum lot size you must amend the Quantity to be a multiple of the minimum lot size (e.g. 2 x minimum lot size of 100 = 200 units). To help you with this, you can use the “+” and “-” buttons to increase or decrease your quantity by the minimum lot size amount.
